Yank Planes Hit Hidden Jap Carriers

Despite clever attempts at camouflage, two Japanese aircraft carriers (arrows) at Kure naval base, Honshu, were the targets for carrier-based planes of the U. S. Third Fleet. The carrier at left is surrounded by near misses, and the one at right is concealed by netting running from ship to shore with several built on the flight deck for added deception.

Heaviest Raid In History

Unleashed On Nippon By B-29s

Fires Visible Over 180 Miles Blanket 4 Jap Cities; Wake Hit

Guam, Aug. 2 — (AP) — Solid sheets of flame visible more than 180 miles blanketed four Japanese cities and a huge oil refinery center today as a great fleet of 820 B-29s smashed Japan with 6,632 tons of bombs and mines in the greatest air raid in history.

"The sight was incredible—beyond description," declared Sgt. Lester L. Sharpe of Kansas City, Kan., as jubilant crews returned to their Marianas bases.

Fast little fighter planes carried on the attack as the Superforts winged home. Simultaneously, reports from Admiral Nimitz and Tokyo radio told of submarine and warship bombardments on either side of Hokyo, the shelling of Wake Island and a daring rescue on a Japanese-held Marshall island atoll.

Only one B-29 was lost as the hundreds of big planes dumped their promised cargoes on the refineries and the four cities forewarned of their fate.

"They knew we were coming but they didn't do anything about it," said Maj. William C. Wilson of Springfield, O. "We buzzed in and bombed, then barreled out with practically no opposition. General Lemay was right—the Japs are flat on their backs."

Results Good to Excellent

Of the attack on the four industrial cities—rail and aluminum centers—he pilots said: "Bombing was good to excellent." It was the same against the Kawasaki peroleum area near Tokyo.

Some of the Superforts carried out the deepest mining operation of the Pacific war, reaching almost to the Russian border.

Sixty Mustang fighter planes lashed Osaka, Japan's second city, and nearby Kobe, its principal seaport and shipbuilding center, at noon, Radio Tokyo reported. Sixty more Mustangs hit factories and transportation in another area, but poor reception of the enemy broadcast garbled the name of the district.

Radio Tokyo reported that allied carrier planes and warships bombed and shelled O island, 70 miles south of Tokyo in the Sagami sea, yesterday, indicating Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet had resumed its attacks on the homeland after more than two days of official silence on its activities.

Tokyo said one cruiser and three destroyers shelled O island and that three submarines shelled the western side of the Cape of Erimo on southern Hokkaido.

Wake Island Attacked

Little Wake island, symbol of Marine defiance of overpowering Japanese forces, bobbed into the news as Admiral Nimitz reported Pacific fleet carrier planes and a battleship bombed and shell enemy installations yesterday. Results were not reported.

The Marshalls, major islands of which were captured by Americans 18 months ago, also shared interest

Potsdam Conference Communique Will be Given Out Tomorrow

President Truman Meets King Off Plymouth, Then Heads Home

Potsdam, Aug. 2—(AP)—The Big Three began their homeward journeys to their respective capitals today after formally ending the historic Potsdam conference by writing a joint communique which will be released to the world tomorrow.

The conference ended in an atmosphere of cordialty. The world was expected to know soon what President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Premier Stalin planned for the immediate future of Europe.

But the full import of what they accomplished since the sessions opened July 17 may not be realized for some time insofar as decisions may affect the Pacific war.

Truman left in a C-54 plane, bound for Washington by way of Plymouth, where he met King George VI this afternoon.

Attlee left from an airfield near Potsdam to take up the reins of the new Laborite government, and it was believed possible Stalin had left for Moscow, although there was no announcement of the departure of his special train.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin left Potsdam by plane several hours after Attlee's departure to return to Britain.

Secrecy Maintained

The strict secrecy imposed on the deliberations from the outset was maintained until the close of the conference. A joint communique will be issued to the world's press tonight for study and will be released simultaneously in the three capitals tomorrow, a public relations officer said.

The final meeting last night was held in a luxurious chamber of the Cecilienhof, which once was the residence of former Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm.

An eye-witness said the final two-hour session was marked by an "atmosphere of great cordiality." Forty persons were in the conference room, 15 of them seated around the round table, for the after-dinner meeting which was devoted to the phrasing of the joint communique.

London Hears Reports

(In London, diplomatic sources said they believed the Big Three might have decided Poland's western frontier, possibly extending to the Oder river, which would place the Poles little more than 30 miles from Berlin. No such report had any official confirmation, however).

There is widespread belief that Stalin actually was coordinating soviet military might in the Asiatic theater with that of Britain and the United States. His physical presence when the ultimatum to Japan was issued by Churchill and the president, with the concurrence of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, and his consent to the disclosure that he had talked with Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, allied commander in Southeast Asia, lent credence to this report.

HISTORIC MEETING

(By The Associated Press)

With President Truman, Aug. 2—President Truman headed back to the United States today, stopping at Plymouth for a 20-minute talk with King George VI, as the Big Three's Berlin declaration was drawn up for release to the world tonight.

Truman had lunch with the British monarch aboard H. M. S. Renown, lying off the war-battered port of Plymouth. The king arranged to visit the president later aboard the U. S. S. Augusta, the

Laval Takes Stand Tomorrow in Trial of Marshal Petain

Aged French Chieftain Dozes as Testimony Enters Tenth Day

Paris, Aug. 2—(AP)—Pierre Laval, whose name has flitted frequently through ten days of testimony, will be called as a witness tomorrow in the treason trial of Marshal Petain, the court announced today.

The old marshal fell sound asleep, as did three of the jurors, as a procession of defense witnesses portrayed him as anti-German and as a patriot who gave up French artillery in North Africa to prevent the Germans from marching through Spain to attack Gibraltar.

Charles Trochu, president of the Paris Municipal Council, was telling how Petain really was never in control of the Vichy government when the 89-year-old defendant dozed off. Trochu raised his voice to a shout, saying Vichy ministers ruled their departments and the marshal never knew what they were doing. Petain awakened and recess was called.

Laval, Petain's chief of government, is in Fresnes prison. He, too, faces treason charges, but his trial may be two months off.

It was Gen. Bernard Serigny, long a friend of Petain, who told how Hitler early in 1941 demanded from Generalissimo Franco the right to send troops across Spain to attack the British bastion guarding the western entrance of the Mediterranean.

The general said Franco had disclosed the demand to Petain along with the information that he had refused.

Petain, himself, was uneasy about Spain, the witness testified, but he quoted the marshal as saying:

"Franco can count on me in resisting the Germans' demand for permission to cross Spain".

As the trial started its tenth day, defense counsel read a cable signed by John Alexander Schaeffer, director of the National Republican Vigilance Committee, 7 E 42nd St., New York, which said: "American veterans who had the honor of serving in France under Gen. Pershing and who have admired you through the years as a soldier and patriot salute you in this grave hour. With abiding affection and confidence, we condemn your trial as unrepresentative of the great French people and pray that the conscience of France will compel termination of the proceedings".

Stricken

Dixon's police chief, J. D. Van Bibber, who is one of Illinois' oldest chiefs in point of continuous service, suffered a massive cerebral hemorrhage last evening at 5:15 o'clock in the fire department quarters at the city hall. While his condition is reported to be very critical he was reported to be showing some improvement at the Katherine Shaw Bethea hospital early this afternoon.

When he was stricken Fire Chief Albert Fordyce and Fireman William Kitson, who were nearby, assisted him to a chair and summoned a physician. The stroke appeared to have affected his entire left side and as soon as medical attention could be summoned, he was removed in an ambulance to the hospital. Chief Van Bibber was elected a member of the city commission in 1911 and served in the council until 1917 when he was appointed chief of police and has served faithfully in that capacity since.

Few Europe Air Force Veterans to Pacific

Washington, Aug. 2 - (AP) — Only one man in five of air force personnel from the European and Mediterranean theaters will go to the Pacific.

The other 80 per cent will be assigned to jobs in the United States, said Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, assistant chief of an staff personnel, in a broadcast last night.

Most of those who go to the Pacific have not been in combat, Anderson said.

The air force had 2,300,000 men on V-E Day and plans to use 2,130,000 against Japan.

Records

Guam, Aug. 2 — (AP) — History's greatest air raid by 820 Superforts today on five Japanese centers required the combined efforts of 54,000 Americans.

Of these, 9,000 were American pilots, bombardiers and gunners who were over Japan between midnight and 3 a. m.

Forty-five thousand ground crewmen labored to get the big ships ready for their mission.

The Superforts carried 5,330,000 gallons of high test aviation gasoline.

The combined mileage was 2,460,000.

The crew used up 126,280 man hours sweating out the long flight over water from the Marianas.

If all the planes had taken off at the same time from all available airfields in the Marianas — naturally they didn't — it would have required 90 minutes to get the planes in the air at a rate of a plane every seven seconds.

If they had been lined up on one giant strip, tail to nose, they would have formed a train approximately 18 miles long.

The planes carried food for 9,000 meals. There were 45,000 cups of coffee, 9,000 apples and 9,000 oranges.

Speedy

New York, Aug. 2 - (AP) — The "Shooting Star", jet-propelled fighter plane which hurtled 555 miles between Dayton, Ohio and New York in 62 minutes, was acclaimed today as the world's fastest plane.

Traveling nearly as fast as sound, the bat-like super-streamlined craft hissed over La Guardia field yesterday an hour and two minutes after it left Wright Field, Dayton. Landing preparations added 32½ minutes before the trim gray plane touched the runway.

The pilot, Col. William H. Councill, said he had not tried to push the plane to its greatest speed, which the Army has not revealed saying only that it is "in excess of 550 miles an hour".

Business Profits, War Worker Income Will be Cut Soon

Great Cutbacks in War Spending Expected in Coming Fiscal Year

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—The budget bureau says business profits and incomes of war workers will be reduced in the new fiscal year by a 20-billion-dollar slash in government war spending.

And if the war were to end before next summer, there would be an even greater cutback in spending, with heavier effects on economic life in America.

The extent of unemployment in such a case would be determined by the effectiveness of reconversion plans.

Those forecasts were made in a revised budget for the fiscal year 1946, which started a month ago.

On the assumption the war will continue through the fiscal year, the bureau estimated war spending at $70,000,000,000 compared with $90,000,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

Estimate Total Spending

It estimated total federal spending at $85,000,000,000, compared with $100,000,000,000 in fiscal 1945.

But Budget Director Harold D. Smith was not content with the assumption the war would go on another 11 months.

He termed it of "utmost importance" that all government agencies "prepare their plans not only for continuing war but also for early peace and demobilization".

Smith put much stress on "the speed and effectiveness of reconversion". He said that if the war ends beore next summer "we would then be faced with the problem of rapid demobilization. This would inevitably mean more unemployment. Its extent would depend on the degree to which our reconversion machinery is geared to take its full load at an early date".

The War Today

DeWitt MacKenzie

Prof. Harold Laski, intellectual socialist who is chairman of the British Labor party's national executive committee, has issued a strong statement of governmental policy which gives one to wonder whether he himself doesn't represent an anomalous figure in the new political set-up.

Custom in the past has left such pronouncements to the prime minister, as leader of the party and very definitely skipper of the ship of state. Of course, the broad governmental policies naturally spring from the party, but the prime minister has had the last word and generally has acted as his own spokesman in matters of moment.

It therefore sounds strange to hear the law coming from Prof. Laski, who isn't even a member of parliament, although he is one of the strong personalities of the socialist party and is head of its policy-making body. To be sure, Prime Minister Attlee is attending the Big Three conference at Potsdam but a discussion of policy could have awaited his return to London.

Now this column isn't trying to convey the impression that Laski is the power behind the new prime ministership, although some observers take that view. Laski belongs to the left wing of the Socialist party, and there are many of the Laborites who are far to the right of him and don't agree with all his views. Still it's an interesting deviation to see the profes-

Casualties

Washington Aug 2 (AP) — American combat casualties increased 1,855 during the past week, raising the combined Army-Navy total to 1,060,727 since the start of the war.

Secretary of War Stimson gave his Thursday news conference the current Army figures: 197,676 killed, 570,766 wounded, 34,731 missing, and 117,711 prisoners of war a total of 920,917 casualties as reported through July 29.

These figures compared with 196,918 killed, 569,696 wounded 35,708 missing, 117,895 prisoners a total of 920,220 casualties which had been reported to date are 51,588 killed 72,855 wounded 11,611 missing and 3,756 prisoners or a total of 139,810.

The Navy's casualty totals of a week earlier were 51,219 killed, 72,066 wounded, 11,578 missing and 3,759 prisoners, a total of 138,622.

Stimson said that of the 570,766 Army wounded 551,317 have returned to duty and of the 117,711 Army men listed as prisoners 95,709 have been since exchanged or returned to military control.

Roundup of Doings in Washington for Telegraph Readers

Main Activities in National Capital Summarized by Associated Press

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, Aug 2 —(AP) — Senator Johnson (D-Colo) hinted today he might try to have future Army appropriations cut unless military leaders heeded his demand that the number of soldiers be reduced from 8,000,000 to 3,000,000.

He contended in a speech yesterday the Army could not possibly, in view of transport and supply limitations, bring more than 3,000,000 to bear against Japan by the end of 1946.

With congress in recess until October 8 he conceded that legislators could do nothing for the present but added:

"The best way would be through the Army's appropriations".

The war department and Selective Service made no comment.

Service Wives to Arrive in Spring

London, Aug. 2 - (AP)—U. S. headquarters in the United Kingdom said today it was unlikely that British wives of American servicemen could be transported to the United States before next spring.

The statement was issued in an attempt to spike rumors that more Army transportation was available.

It emphasized that reports that commercial passenger lines might soon be able to transport brides had no connection with transportation to be provided by the Army, whose accommodations are reserved for personnel with higher priorities.

In Paris, Rep. Victor Wickersham (D-Okla) expressing a view opposite to that taken by President Truman, voiced support today of proposals that wives of American occupation troops be brought to Europe.

"We have found that GIs who expect to be here a long time want their wives with them," said Wickersham, chairman of a special house committee on a European tour. "I think they should have them, too."

Crop Production in U. S. Good After Early Poor Weather

(By The Associated Press)

Crops in the broad belt of America lying between the Appalachians and the Rockies presented a warmly fertile picture today—the result of farmers' work and good growing weather during July.

But in the east the prospects were overcast by clouds and humidity.

The far west also shared in the mid-western agricultural optimism, an Associated Press survey showed. California still expected to ship one-tenth of the nation's food supply, the rail situation permitting. Oregon reported crops in good shape, although spring wheat was hurt some by drought.

Crop Yields Still High

However, farm machinery whirred and rumbled across the great plains, the rich Mississippi valley and on east and in the south. Only east of the Appalachian chain were farmers faced with lower yields from some of their crops.

State's Attorney to Probe Fire Death

Jerseyville, Ill., Aug. 2 (AP)—Although laboratory tests revealed that red stains on an ax found in the fire ruins of Mrs. Nettie Durham Ford's home Tuesday with her charred and partly dismembered body were not human blood, State's Attorney Frank A. Reisner of Jersey county today continued his investigation of the woman's mysterious death.

Reisner said he had received "some new information" regarding the case and that he wanted to question five persons in connection with it. He said he would keep the case open until "I am satisfied Mrs. Ford was not murdered."

R. T. Piper, superintendent of the Illinois Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification, said he believed Mrs. Ford died accidentally in the fire which swept her three-room home. He said he was unable to find a motive for murder. He expressed belief the woman's right arm and right leg which were found separated from her body had been burned off.

A coroner's jury Tuesday night returned an open verdict in the death.

Values of British Stocks and Shares Fall Steadily After Attlee's Election

London, Aug. 2 (AP)—Millions of pounds have been shorn from the value of British stocks and shares in less than a week in a selling wave which has followed election of Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor government.

Hardest hit were issue in those companies which the Labor party has announced will be taken over by the government in its plan to nationalize the nation's key industries coal mining, gas, electricity, railroads, iron and steel.

These have dropped more than 10 per cent since last Thursday, when the vote was announced in Britain's general election.

Even Bank of England stock rating normally among gilt-edged investments was down 21 pounds to 257.

Bank shares took a tumble of nine and one-half pounds yesterday after Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the Labor Party's executive committee, announced that the Bank of England would be one of the first businesses which the new government will transfer to public ownership.

The declines were not confined, however, to the few industries on the Labor party's list for early nationalization. The entire industrial list has fallen nearly nine per cent.

The extent and length of the decline led several financial writers to question whether sellers might not have gone too far.

Camp Carson Officials Investigate Shooting

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug 2 —(AP)—Camp Carson authorities continued today an investigation of the fatal shooting of three German prisoners of war by Pvt. Harold W. Garland of Columbus, Ind., wounded overseas veteran assigned to guard duty.

Garland shot the prisoners with his carbine in a field near Ovid, Colo., yesterday because he feared they were about to attack him, the Camp Carson public relations officer said.

At Columbus, Ind., last night Garland's mother, Mrs. Charles Garland, said that "in his letters and in talking at home, Harold never held any resentment against the Germans although he was wounded by them".

Mrs. Garland said her son was wounded in North Africa.

No Immediate Change to Be Made in Point Score for Soldiers' Release

Washington, Aug. 2 - (AP)—The Army announced today the point score for discharge will be left at 85 while about 800,000 men with that score are being released.

Later the score will be revised to provide for the discharge of another 700,000 men by June 1, 1946, the date by which the Army had announced a total of 1,500,000 men would be discharged under the credit point system.

In announcing this, Secretary of War Stimson said he could not say now when the new score would be given. The war department previously had stated it expected to announce the new critical score, with points slightly lower than the present figure, some time in July.

Stimson said that at the time of the revision of points to provide for discharge of the 700,000-man group a new computation of individual scores would be made to give soldiers credit for service after May 12 1945. This was the date to which credit points ran under the original interim score of 85.

This new computation, Stimson said, will allow some men who would not have had enough points by the computation of last May to earn their discharge by their service between then and the time of the new computation.

Chaos

Spokane, Wash. - (AP)—It was a good idea on paper and first phases of a deliberately planned traffic jam here last night worked out perfectly.

Capt D. R. Hunter, representing the Army's western railroad manpower project, staged the 15-minute downtown snarl to illustrate what a nationwide traffic jam on railroads would mean.

But irate motorists backed up two blocks in every direction made so much noise with their horns that they drowned out the soldier who was attempting to explain over a public address system that it was a manpower promotional scheme.

Before the war, when truck tires were freely available, when truck owners still could choose the brand they wanted, 1 of every 4 of the biggest operators were big users of Riversides! These big "fleet" operators keep a mileage record of every tire. They know that Riversides give more miles-per-dollar. So they buy Riversides! And more Riversides! Take a tip from these operators who know which tires stand up best. Put Riversides on your car. You, too, will get more miles-per-dollar, more protection against blow-outs, and more miles-of-safety!

A Thought for Today

Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher, all is vanity.—Ecclesiastes 12:8

And not a vanity is given in vain.—Pope.

Back to the Party Line

It wasn't surprising to learn that the American Communists have switched back from a "political association" to a political party. The change had been expected ever since a French Communist attack on Earl Browder's wartime policy of capital-labor collaboration set the stage for the American party's repudiation of its veteran leader.

The American CP's plan for revolution here seems as hopeless as ever. In spite of grievous inequalities in our society, which can and should be corrected under our own system, the American way of life and standard of living surpass anything that the Communists can offer to the great majority of American citizens.

Yet the American CP probably figures that this is a ripe time to get back to the party line. And there are reasons to support this conjecture.

First, the defeat of Germany ended Russia's great war crisis. And since American Communists' allegiance is to the Russian government, they can resume their divisive and subversive work here without being concerned with its effect on our prosecution of the Japanese war.

Second, the American people realize that the need for close and friendly relations with Russia is of the utmost importance today. Because of this, and because of admiration for the Red Army, many seem to have the idea that any opposition, or even criticism of American Communists is unfriendly to the Soviet government, even though the American Communists' avowed goal is the overthrow of our capitalistic economy and the government under which it functions.

Third, we are nearing the end of a great war which has thrown our economy out of gear and strained our tempers as well as our resources. The American CP undoubtedly hopes that the readjustment and temporary unemployment which are inevitably ahead will produce the ferment of discontent in which class warfare breeds.

But, for all these advantages to the Communist Party, its timing hasn't been perfect. For it may very well prejudice American opinion against Russia at a time when, for all her strength, she will need help in the form of American skill, American materials and American dollars.

The American Communists have always shaped their policy on orders from Russia, and it can scarcely be considered that the present move was not dictated from the same source.

And it might strike the American government as a little cynical, to say the least, if polite requests and friendly gestures from Moscow were accompanied by the efforts of a cell of Moscow's political adherents to antagonize and, if possible, destroy the system under which were produced the materials, dollars and skill Russia needs and the United States under the present cordial Russo-American co-operation, is happy to give.

Fair Enough

by Westbrook Pegler

(Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate.)

New York—Our British cousins seem to have let themselves in for a spell of the same sort of invisible government and backstairs bossism that the late Mr. Roosevelt gave us in the heyday of Felix Frankfurter. Hardly had the election returns become known whereby their so-called Labor party took over the government with Clement Attlee as prime minister, when Harold J. Laski, the chairman of the party's executive committee, began telling the world what Britain was going to do about Spain and other nations which he calls "plague spots."

The British people elected Laski to no office and we may doubt that if he should offer himself and go forth preaching his revolution which calls for such bloodshed as might be necessary, he would be any more successful than Frankfurter would be here. But he is one of those bumptious and devious denizens of the smoke-filled room whose power in the party may be likened to that of Sidney Hillman in the new deal until the death of his patron and agent. And it was not surprising that with the election won, he emerged from the underground assuming authority to speak for the British people and demanding, in their name, that the government of Spain be altered to his liking which is something on the order of the Russian system.

"We cannot leave plague spots in Europe", he said. "We intend to use our influence to erase those plague spots, above all the plague spot represented by the Franco regime".

The same dispatch from London said "it was indicated" that the victory of Laski's party "was extremely bad news for the right-wing government of Portugal as well as that of Greece."

The effontery of this man is no less interesting than his intentions. Holding no office, unrecognized by the people of Britain, a revolutionary lecturer by trade, he has long been active in the conspiracy to discredit the Constitution of the United States and substitute authority for the freedoms which it undertook to guarantee to Americans. His associates here have been the man who calls himself David K. Niles, one of the White House haunts during Roosevelt's time, Frankfurter, our new deal ambassador to London, Mr. Winant, and Harry Hopkins. Indeed, he was one of Roosevelt's counsellors of revolution and called on him during his visits to the United States to lecture at Harvard, Columbia and other sources of the dictatorial experiments which, in the last three months, President Truman has been repudiating day by day. Unquestionably he may take satisfaction from the fact that, without citizenship or residence in our country or any stake in the nation, he nevertheless was influential in forcing upon the Americans some of the most audacious invasions of their liberties in Roosevelt's presidency.

The question is not pertinent here whether the Franco government is good or bad from our point of view or that of the British people or Laski. The fact is that it happens to be the government of Spain which is presumed to be an independent nation with a right to conduct its own affairs. Spain has an equal right, which is to say none, to regard Britain as a plague spot and to use her "influence" to erase it.

The "influence" by which such erasures are made generally consists of conspiracy and treachery in the household of a nominally friendly nation, and as a last resort, the lives and bodies of young men. Laski of course would play an absentee role in the actual erasure but, like Charlie Chaplin, when he was demanding a second front on the beaches of Normandy from his refuge in Beverly Hills, his spirit would march with the brave lads and his heart undoubtedly would bleed for their families.

This method of rescuing a nation from a government that is offensive to the rescuers was the same that Adolf Hitler adopted in the Sudetenland of Czecho-Slovakia and in Norway. It is the same that Moscow uses in Yugoslavia, Romania and Greece and it is very reprehensible when it is used by the fascists but noble when the Laksis of the Red revolution are in charge of operations. Thus, a Quisling is a Quisling only if he happens to be on the wrong side but a "patriot" if in the behalf of the other terror, he betrays his people and his country into slavery under armed terrorists and secret police.

Meanwhile, it may be observed, Laski has seen no plague in Bucharest, for example, where the Russians emulated Hitler's way in Oslo, so there is a temptation to believe that, on behalf of the British people but with no authority for them, he has committed Britain in favor of communist dictatorship and to the destruction by war, if necessary, of others.

On the basis of our knowledge of the British we may anticipate that, given a few more outbreaks of this kind and a few years of failure in the tradition of so-called Labor governments they will smash Laski's hat over his ears and repudiate him utterly. They are more sensitive than we were during Frankfurter's impudent hour as a power behind the scenes and they will want to see his credentials, which do not exist. And the Socialist program of pie in the sky will flop because whatever her government these days Britain is busted and the Americans are tired of paying taxes to meet Britain's running expenses as well as our own.

George Spelvin, American, says it has been bad enough to have to divvy his earnings with the people of mother nation, but that he draws the line at paying his money to promote Bolshevism in Spain and Portugal.

Deaths

PIETRO MASCAGNI

Rome Aug. 2—(AP)—Pietro Mascagni, 82, famous composer of Cavalleria and other operas, died today of bronchial pneumonia and hardening of the arteries.

The composer had a long and brilliant career, and had reaped a large fortune in royalties from his operas. His most reecnt opera was "Nerone," which had its premiere in 1935.

He had been hit hard by the war, however. His home was seized by the socialists after the Germans were driven from Rome. He said the socialists had accused him of having been a fascist. When the end of the war came to Italy, his fortune had vanished.

Although he had conducted operas during Mussolini's regime a few years before the war, he said he had no interest in politics and declared the fascists simply exploited his name.

He lost one of his sons in Mussolini's Ethiopian war. The other, Domenico, he said, "got tangled up with the fascists," and left Rome for northern Italy before the allied entry. He is survived by his 82-year-old widow.

INT. PORCH
MEDIUM SHOT—SHOOTING TOWARD STAIRS

They all stand looking at the stairs, and after a few moments Corliss' feet come into view, and finally Corliss herself, pale and obviously shaken. Mr. Archer beckons peremptorily to his daughter and then shoots a venomous glance at Mrs. Pringle. Very slowly Corliss comes down the stairs.

MR. ARCHER: Corliss—this—this woman—

He endows the simple noun with all the most deplorable connotations.

MR. ARCHER.—this woman has just had the—the gall to say—

CORLISS. (very nervous) Yes, Daddy—I heard. I wasn't actually listening—honestly—but I couldn't help hearing.

MRS. ARCHER: (quietly) Corliss, sit down.

Very gingerly Corliss sits on the edge of a chair.

MRS. PRINGLE. If you want to lead up to it gently—ask her if she was at the corner of Jefferson and Fifth yesterday with her soldier friend having a cocktail—

CORLISS: (yelping with indignation) It was a shrimp cocktail! I'll murder that Betty Campbell!

MR. ARCHER: (grimly) What soldier?

MRS. ARCHER: (trying to soothe him) I know about it, Harry. It was Private Earheart.

CORLISS: Corporal Earheart.

MRS. ARCHER: (irritably) Be quiet, Corliss.

MR. ARCHER: What's this about Doctor Fabling in the Professional Building?

CORLISS: (stalling valiantly) Well—I—

MRS. PRINGLE: It's no use trying to deny it. You were seen coming out of his office yesterday—and the week before—by two different parties. And yesterday you were seen meeting this soldier.

Mrs. Archer walks over to the chair where Corliss is seated, trying to control herself.

MRS. ARCHER: Corliss—look at me.

Corliss raises her face for a moment.

MRS. ARCHER: Is that true, Corliss?

CORLISS: (resigned) Yes, Mother.

MRS. PRINGLE (this is her great moment) In future, Janet, perhaps you'll be a little bit more careful who you call a tramp!

And with this she sails off the porch, well satisfied.

CLOSE SHOT—CORLISS, MR. AND MRS. ARCHER

Mr. Archer is trying to comfort his wife who has collapsed onto the couch almost in tears. Corliss looks unhappily at her mother. She is obviously deeply distressed to see how Mrs. Archer is reacting to the information, but there is that blood oath which she took which is sealing her lips.

MR. ARCHER: (to Corliss) You little fool! You little fool!

Suddenly he darts for the telephone and picks it up.

MR. ARCHER: Operator—get me Camp Morningside.

MRS. ARCHER: Harry—what're you going to do?

MR. ARCHER: I'm going to speak to the commanding officer and have this—this Earheart court-martialed and shot.

This dire threat finally needles Corliss into action. She jumps up hastily.

CORLISS: (excitedly) No, Daddy—no! You mustn't!

MR. ARCHER: He knows that you're not 16 yet. He—

CORLISS: Yes, Daddy, but—but—(long pause) Well—it isn't him.

With a trembling hand, Archer hangs up the phone and faces his quaking daughter.

MR. ARCHER: (in a voice of doom) Then who is it?

For a moment Corliss swallows painfully and doesn't know what to say. Then o.s. we hear again the familiar banshee wail of Dexter's voice.

DEXTER'S VOICE O.S: Corliss! Oh, Corliss!

Corliss decides that it's worth trying anyway.

CORLISS: (dramatically) Dexter!

Mrs. Archer gives a gasp of horror. Mr. Archer is turning purple with rage.

MR. ARCHER: (a hoarse yell) Dexter? (simply) I'll kill him. I'll kill him.

MEDIUM SHOT—SHOOTING TOWARDS SCREEN DOOR

It is at this moment that Dexter, with an amiable grin on his face, blandly makes his entrance.

DEXTER: (oozing cordiality) Hi, everybody!

With the obvious intent of murdering Dexter, Mr. Archer makes a lunge at the startled youth who discreetly ducks behind a chair, while Mrs. Archer drags her seething husband away.

MR. ARCHER: (hoarsely) Get out of my sight, you vile, unspeakable, shameless, filthy little swine!

DEXTER: (alarmed and puzzled) Huh? Gee whiz, Mr. Archer, I'm sorry. (soothingly) It'll never happen again.

MRS. ARCHER: (frantically) Harry, I implore you—please control yourself! Murdering him isn't going to help! Please!

DEXTER: Huh? Holy cow, Mr. Archer—it was Corliss' fault as much as mine.

CORLISS. Dexter, you don't know what you're saying!

DEXTER: But, Mr. Archer—it was all in fun!

Again the outraged father makes a murderous lunge for Dexter who manages to duck and scrams out into the garden with Corliss at his heels.

Letter from Chili Is Interesting

Paragraphs from a most interesting letter written to Mrs. Eustace E. Shaw, from Barquito, Chanaral, Chile, by Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, follow.

We are in the middle of winter down here now but enjoy it very much, as many of our days now are the best in the year, and it never really gets cold here. We are doing lots of work in the garden, as things grow here all year. Right now we have lettuce with solid heads, beets, peas, sweet potatoes, celery and several other things. We have set out thirty new rose plants, which should bloom in three or four months. Our poinsettias are in full bloom and make our back yard a blaze of red We have one plant that is about twenty feet high and spreads over a circle of about fifteen feet that is solid with poinsettias 12 inches to 18 inches in diameter. The chickens are growing by leaps and bounds, and we will have broilers in three or four weeks, now that is when we like them best.

Except for a few trips up to Potrerillas, I haven't been away from here since we came home. Things are so unsettled here, travel so hard, very few ships and no passenger ships, that the most comfortable thing to do is to stay right at home. We often wonder where we could find a more comfortable place to live the year around than right here, where we have perfect climate a nice house, and good help. When we leave it we probably will often wish that we were back again.

Trapped Yamashita Sticks to Role of Pompous Conqueror

But His Officers, Men Know Japan Has Lost War in Pacific

With the U. S. 6th Division, Northern Luzon, Aug. 2—(AP)—General Yamashita, a trapped would-be hero, still plays the role of a fat, pompous conqueror.

But many of his officers and men, pocketed with him in the wild mountain country of north Luzon, are convinced Japan has lost the war.

Japanese soldiers falling into American hands tell that story.

Yamashita, the man who rushed from earlier triumphs in Malaya and the capture of Singapore and boasted he would wreck General MacArthur's return to the Philippines, today hides with his favored few in comparative luxury.

His bedraggled, hungry troops and hundreds of dying Japanese civilians pray for a general surrender, or Yamashita's suicide.

This picture was pieced together from prisoners who braved the gunfire of their own comrades to surrender.

Plentifully Supplied

One officer said that when he last visited Yamashita's headquarters, the general gave him American cigarets, whiskey and chocolate from plentiful supplies, and bragged about the feminine favorites he had with him.

Another told of seeing the commander parading about, still plump, wearing a natty uniform, with a personal servant carrying a samurai sword. He said it was a "beauty."

Some said the commander's stern discipline kept his fleeing troops in line, but complained that other officers were brutal to the men—and some had been shot by the men for their cruelties.

Others described little groups of soldiers and starving civilians gathering in tiny groups, whispering the latest news they manage to collect from American propoganda leaflets.

The Japanese, they say, know of the failure in the Philippines and the severance of the southern empire. They know of the bombings of Japan and fear for their families' lives.

And they talk often of general surrender.

Civilians Helpless

Four prisoners reached American lines yesterday. Eighteen others were slaughtered by Japanese machine gunners who suspected they planned to surrender.

Without emotion the prisoners told of the plight of the helpless civilians, most of them women and children who Yamashita forced to accompany the retreat from Solano—an order issued over the pleas of Japanese consul Kihara when the Americans were fast approaching the town.

Out of 2,300 forced into this march, only 1,200 are believed still alive. Of the survivors, many have dropped by the wayside to die or wander alone over the desolate mountain trails.

Yamashita's personal retinue, they say, numbers about 200, and he moves among them with the same hard, arrogant facial expression displayed after the fall of Singapore. Yamashita likes his beefsteak, and he drove more than 100 fine cattle and innumerable stolen swine with him when he began his flight.

One prisoner said he heard two American pilots discussing their beer. "They almost drove me mad." He managed to get captured as soon as possible.

as a destroyer escort and several LCIs (landing craft, infantry) rescued 283 natives from Japanese-held Jaluit. This increased to 1,783 the number of Marshallese rescued by daring light fleet units this year.

P-47 Thunderbolts, recently added to the U. S. Army Strategic Air Forces' fighter strength on Iwo Jima, made their first attack on Japan yesterday. Accompanied by Mustangs, the force of 37 fighters strafed and rocketed railroad yards, buildings factories and airfields in the Kobe and Nagoya areas. Four planes were lost.

Seven Jap Ships Kayoed

The Far East Air Forces knocked out seven more Japanese ships, including two destroyer escorts, and severely damaged factories, communication lines and airfields in heavy attacks on Kyushu and surrounding waters on Monday, Gen. MacArthur's communique reported.

Today's B-29 attack 778 of the big planes fired the Honshu cities of Mito, Hachoji, Nagoka and Toyama, and the Kawasaki oil refinery, constructed on reclaimed land in Tokyo Bay.

Forty-two mine-laying Superforts planted their explosives in Shimonoseki Straits, between Honshu and Kyushu, and in waters off the cities of Seishin and Rashin on the northernmost coast of Korea.

Seishin is only 50 miles from the Russian border and 120 miles southwest of Vladivostok, big Russian seaport.

Exceeded D-Day Load

The total bomb and mine load of 6,632 tons was reported to be the world's greatest. It compared with 6,400 tons cascaded on Normandy on Europe's D-Day. The raid also established several B-29 records, including both the total participating and the tonnage. Greatest previous Superfort raid involved 625 of the sky giants and some 4,500 tons of bombs. The raid today put 9,000 airmen over the homeland and required the services of 45,000 ground crewmen—a total of 54,000—to establish more records.

Headquarters of the U. S. Army Strategic Air Forces has no information as to how civilians of the 10 cities which have been hit in forewarned attacks reacted. It seems certain, however, that it residents of the first six forewarned cities didn't evacuate before they were fire-bombed that others know by now that the "surrender or be destroyed" warning was not mere propaganda. Nine other cities also have been warned they are on the B-29s' schedule.

Abashed

Mount Carmel, Ill., Aug. 2—(AP)—Sheriff M. M. Mobley of Wabash county crossed himself up by auctioning off an item out of his own office during a public sale — then had to buy it back.

Walter Kolb, lawyer, turned prankster, picked up a broom from the sheriff's office, piled it atop public sale goods—and the sheriff sold the broom for $1.15. His janitor missed the broom, then informed the sheriff who—much abashed —rebought the broom for $1.15.

would have its own legislative program when the senate returns from vacation.

Republicans are mainly concerned, Taft said, with seeing that jobs were available for all after conversion from war to peacetime production.

The Virginian, who contends hoarding by the armed forces has caused civilian shortages, told a reporter he received no reply to a letter he wrote Gen. Brehon Somervell, Chief of Army Service Forces.

Army officials said recently their food reserves would not feed the nation for one week.

SEEKS INDUSTRIAL PEACE

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) today proposed a conference of top spokesmen for labor, management and government to seek industrial peace.

Vandenberg submitted his plan in a letter to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who endorsed it in a prompt reply.

The senator suggested that leaders of each branch of the nation's economy copy the example set at San Francisco when 50 nations "frankly faced" their problems in a "triumph of the council table". Vandenberg was a delegate to the San Francisco conference which drafted the recently-ratified United Nations Charter.

"Is it impossible to apply this formula at home in respect to vital industrial relationships?" the Michigan senator asked.

He said he was particularly concerned that "needless strife" would impair reconversion to peace production "and permanently jeopardize the country and all its citizenship".

Schwellenbach, a former senator, told Vandenberg in his letter and in a two-hour personal conference yesterday, that he has "been thinking more and more during these last few weeks about the desirability of calling a conference of industry and labor".

Vandenberg suggested that Schwellenbach preside over such a meeting.

Situation Permanent

"Responsible management knows that free collective bargaining is here to stay and that progressive law must continue to support it and that it must be wholeheartedly accepted", Vandenberg wrote the cabinet officer.

"Responsible labor leadership knows that irresponsible strikes and subversive attacks upon essential production are the gravest threats to the permanent success of labor's bill of rights.

"American government knows that social statutes are futile except as they largely stem from mutual wisdom and mutual consent. Therefore, still thinking of applying the San Francisco precedent to our own domestic problem, I am moved to inquire whether you would not believe it possible to assemble a united industrial peace conference of our own under your able chairmanship in which all these interests may assemble and frankly face the need for a better, a surer and wiser code for their mutual advancement in the desperately uncertain times that lie ahead".

Vandenberg contended that industrial peace cannot "be dictated by summary legislation". But it can be written into law, he said, "by the common recommendation of all concerned if they can meet together, under proper auspices, to face a challenge which cannot long go unanswered!".

cruiser which brought Truman to Europe.

Late in the day the Augusta, with Truman aboard, steamed out to sea.

"Welcome to my country," the king said to the first American president to visit Britain since Woodrow Wilson's visit after World war I.

The president and the monarch shook hands with cordialty and stood chatting while clasping hands.

Truman wore a light grey lounge suit with a red overcheck, brown shoes and a light grey hat.

Hundreds at Docks

Hundreds of persons gathered at the docks of this bomb-scarred old port on the chance of seeing the president on his arrival by plane from Potsdam, but a last minute change of landing plans robbed them of the opportunity. Because of flying conditions, Truman and his party landed at an RAF field about eight miles north of Plymouth. They had been scheduled to land at a field 40 miles to the west.

U. S. Army automobiles waiting at the latter field scurried to the Harrowbeer airdrome, where the president's plane came in.

Truman inspected some of the bomb damage at the port, then went to the U. S. naval base and embarked on a barge for the Augusta. He missed the Lord Mayor of Plymouth and other officials waiting for him at the dock.

The War Today

sor at the outset of the new regime acting as spokesman. Whether he will continue in that role remains to be seen.

Prof. Laski's text was that "this is the arrival of the people in power." In this connection one notes that he developed one of the cardinal tenets of his creed from observations which he made in the United States while lecturing at various universities. The reference book, "Current Biography," quotes him as saying after his return to England in 1920 that in America he had seen "more nakedly than I had seen in Europe, the significance of the struggle between capital and labor. I learned how little meaning there can be in an abstract political liberty which is subdued to the control of an economic plutocracy. . . . I came back from America convinced that liberty has no meaning save in the context of equality, and I had begun to understand that equality also has no meaning unless the instruments of production are socially-owned."

One highly interesting point in Laski's statement yesterday was that the Labor party abhorred any system of government "in which a small class, living by privilege, tries to exploit, as in Spain it has exploited for centuries, the mass of the community." That seems to turn thumbs down on the Franco government—something which this column previously suggested was likely.

The first item of nationalization, as outlined by Laski, is governmental acquisition of the ancient Bank of England—the old lady of Threadneedle Street. It already had been made known that the bank was to be taken over; but not when. Many people in this country are surprised to learn that this isn't a government institution, but it never has been in its 250 years of existence.

After that will come the nationalization, in the order named, of the coal mines, transport, and the iron and steel industries.

One suspects that it may be a considerable time before all this is achieved, despite the large majority which the Labor party has in Commons. The indications are that the moderate section of the Labor party is determined to move carefully so as not to cause an economic upheaval.

Crop Production

Corn, the broad-leaved, succulent staple of the midwest, was in good condition at the end of July following an unfavorable spring—but needed a hot August and a late frost to attain bumper proportions.

The crop has commenced to tassel as far north as Minnesota, according to a weather bureau report and hot weather the last two weeks has done much to stimulate growth.

The bureau said crop conditions throughout the entire area generally were good to excellent, with the exception of local spots of moisture deficiencies.

Small Grains Doing Well

Small grain crops likewise were doing well. Missouri already started harvesting these as had Minnesotans.

Ranges for cattle were reported as drying from Texas through Colorado, Oklahoma and north, but rains were general enough to prevent any serious damage.

Recent hot weather speeded up the Nebraska corn crop and favored the harvest of the all-time record Nebraska winter wheat crop. Similar weather in Kansas enabled farmers to complete an excellent wheat harvest.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

Washington — The Limehouse slums representative in Parliament rules Britain and the empire.

Its man, Clement Attlee, won control on a platform against free enterprise, and in favor of the government taking over fuel and power, inland transport, iron and steel manufacturing and the Bank of England. The world effects of Britain's electoral revolution are being confusingly forecase. Continuance of the Churchill international policies, for instance, has been promised, yet the Atlee Labor party campaigned in favor of closer collaboration with Russia than Churchill could provide.

Similarly, the ensuing fear of the socialist program throughout the world has prompted mollifying suggestions that the program will be long in enactment, if ever attained, although strangely the sincerity of its devotees is not questioned. From such circumstances, anything but confusion in forecasts would be difficult to find. To gauge accurately the extent of the electoral revolution, it will be necessary to await Attlee's steps. Statements issued since the election can safely be discounted as inspired for political effect. Only in definite action can uncertainty be dispelled.

My information suggests the commonly published guesses are more logical than sound. The only justifiable conclusion yet apparent is that Britain has weakened herself as a world power. A more accurate way to put it is that she has publicly proclaimed her existing weakness. Her money was gravely shocked by the war. Without the Bretton Woods agreement it might not now have its depreciated stability. Her war effort materially had to be largely sustained from the outside (by us, Canada and Australia.) It was able to sustain itself only psychologically. Its navy, which ruled the world for several generations, is now a fraction of ours (one-fifth to one-eighth, whereas it was equal at the start of the war). Its army is a minor world entity as armies go in size and equipment these days.

Its foreign trade, which furnished the only economic reason for its world position, has become a matter for its gravest post-war concern. The Bretton Woods agreement was designed to help restore it, but we have most of the ships on the seas and the manufacturing capacity, while Russia has great raw materials and industrial ambitions.

The election is likely to lead to a further culmination of these too-glaring conditions. Churchill, as a world figure, was able to maintain a facial front above them, to cover them while he extemporized. This will be much more difficult for Attlee, especially in view of his program.

His platform, for instance, does not advocate more coal production, more power, sounder money or finance by the Bank of England, greater or better iron and steel and inland transport. It proposes that his Labor party use the people's money to buy these enterprises and operate them, not to make them bigger and better, but to give his party followers a greater share of the profits of operation, in short, higher wages.

This brave new world of post-war measures national wealth in production. Money does not mean much any more. The price level in an inflationary period is apt to be a greater influence on the wage paid than the amount of the wage. At any rate, national production means national wealth and is the indispensible factor in the economic well being of its citizens. Britain will not get production under the Labor party program. It does not aim to. Its purpose, indeed, is less work.

Most American officials expect Russia to fail on this point also. The common fears popular in this country that Russia will over-run Europe and Asia, and eventually relegate us to a second class power, are not shared by many of our government men in the know. They do not believe Russia can get production, although she is in a better position to get it than a socialist Britain, as she has the power of compulsion over her workers.

Russia never got enough production on anything to compete with anyone before the war. Not until nazi invasion brought her unity did her production become satisfactory, and even then her backward mechanical methods prevented her from getting the full measure of effort from her limitless manpower. It was numbers, not materials, which saved Russia, as any military man will tell you.

The United States then occupies the best position economically in this new world of material production as the only wealth. We have our troubles, threatening production all too obviously—the wave of strikes now starting and expansion of them promised, material shortages, a debt which will one day be burdensome if not destructive, a reconversion problem, and a give-it-away international spirit. But at least we have a system which produces better than anyone. It implemented the whole world in this war, under circumstances giving our soldiers and workers more money and better conditions than any people anywhere. We did it under freedom, without Russia's compulsion or Britain's proposed socialism.

Our problem then solely is to carry this system to its superior possibilities in post-war. The British election result does not alter the fundamental facts, but emphasizes them.

Business Profits,

Here is the prospect as seen by the budget bureau for the next 11 months if the war continues:

The 21,000,000 men and women in the armed forces and in direct war production may dwindle to 16,000,000 by next June.

People Will Lose Jobs

Many people will lose their wartime jobs. But potential demand for manpower will be adequate to give them new jobs "if industry can devise methods whereby peacetime production can be resumed despite remaining wartime shortages in certain materials".

Federal receipts are estimated at only $39,000,000,000 compared with $46,500,000,000 in fiscal 1945. This drop is expected even though no reductions in tax rates are contemplated. The reduction will be caused largely by the cut in federal spending, which will reduce income, which in turn will mean smaller tax collections.

Mel Ott in 500 Circle for Homers

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx had to shove over today to make room in the 500 home run club for Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants

Ruth still had plenty of elbow room with his lifetime total of 714 round trippers but Foxx, who is finishing his active career with the Phillies, can feel Ott's hot breath on his neck Double X has 5.1 counting four this season, and Ott hit the half-millennial mark last night off Boston's portly Johnny Hutchings

Things have been breaking tough for Ott since his Giants ran out of a spring pernant fever and contracted a lingering case of second division blues but the 36-year-old skipper hasn't let it hurt his hitting Batting 336 fifth in the league with 19 doubles 11 homers and 53 RBIs the personable manager has done a good job of trying to lift his team up by its boot straps

Not Fine Baseball

Nobody ever will point to New York's 9-2 romp over Boston as a prime example of baseball as it should be played but the date will live in the record books on Ott's No 500 That's an average of 25 a year over a 20 year span a real standout mark even if the Polo Grounds short foul lines do give a fellow a little help

Boston's centerfielder, Carden Gillenwater, pulled some dizzy base running that included the unusual feat of taking third base when it also was occupied by teammate Butch Nieman The Braves three-man symphony had a chance to toot 'taps" for Van Mungo's early departure but Bill Emmerich stopped their heroes for an easy New York verdict.

Far more important to the over-all scheme of things was the combination of Pittsburgh's 1-0 shutout of Chicago and St Louis' 15 3 slaughter of Cincinnati, slicing the Bruins' National league lead to five games and restoring the champs to second place over idle Brooklyn

Butcher Blanks Bruins

Max Butcher blanked the Cubs with four hits while Frank Colman who replaced the slumping Babe Dahlgren, drove home the big run with a seventh-inning double to beat Claude Passeau

Johnny Hopp socked a bases loaded homer as the Cards went wild in an 8-run second inning to crush the Reds with a 19-hit barrage, letting Charley Barrett coast home to his 11th success Marty Marion also poled a four-master his first of the year

Brooklyn's twi-night doubleheader in Philadelphia was washed out for the second night in a row

Detroit picked up a full game boosting its advantage to an even five lengths over New York and Washington now tied for second

The Bengals bounced back with four in the last of the ninth to shade St Louis 9-8 on Roy Cullenbine's double with the sacks packed and Vern Stephens costly error Lou Finney hit a grand slam homer for the Brownies in his first league appearance since being grabbed from Boston by waivers

Washington swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 2-1 behind Dutch Leonard and 3-0 on Roger Wolff's five-hit chucking to tie New York for second place Both Leonard and Wolff hung up their 12th wins

Boston Blasts Bronxites

Boston snapped the Yankees victory string at five by rallying for four runs in the seventh and a 7-5 margin Vic Johnson took the nod on a fine job of shutout relief chucking with Jim Turner charged with the loss Floyd Bevens New York starter, homered with two on his first in the majors but faded in the seventh

Chicago regained fifth position by stopping Cleveland 2-1 on a squeeze play with Floyd Baker bunting and Leroy Schalk scoring from third Ed Lopat was the victor over Steve Gromek with Pat Seerey giving the Tribe their only tally on his ninth homer

Softball Notes

Due to the absence of any north side all-star teams, the north-south all star games in the lower age brackets will be played Tuesday evening instead of tonight. There will be no four top team tournament in the high school league.

Old Timers Trample High School, 12-1

By PVT. BOB FALLSTROM

Remember?

A flood of memories must have assailed most of the spectators at last night's Old Timers vs. Dixon high school softball game at Reynold's field

For they saw "Flash Fordham, 'Shires Miller Joe Sweeney Cy Winebrenner et al turn the pages back to palmier Airport League days by spanking the daylights out of the high schoolers 12-1

The first of a three game set found the supposedly washed up oldsters outclassing their younger foes at every turn Staging a first frame batting orgy to count 10 runs they turned in a tight defensive game to close the door completely on 'Corky' Kernan's gang.

14 Bat in First Inning

Fourteen batters strolled up to the plate in that awful first before Miller whiffed for the final out A combination of the high schooler's inability to field and throw cleanly and the oldsters' pep and fire produced the double figure score

After the first the ball game settled down to a pitching duel Pint sized Kernan held the oldsters hitless until the sixth while the old Flash's puzzling slants kept the high school boys at bay

Fordham's gang pushed its final runs over in the top half of the sixth And the boby sox gang garnered its lone marker in the seventh with a mild rally

Both hurlers turned in gilt edged mound performances Fordham allowing four bingles while Kernan was giving up five The difference came as the sure-handed oldies outfielded and outmaneuvered the younger set

Site for Army-Navy Football Game Sought

Philadelphia Aug 2—(AP) The annual free-for-all for the site of the Army-Navy gridiron tussle has opened with the Quaker City getting in the first bid

Reports from New York have it that Gotham already has the game in the bag but Chamber of Commerce officials here say they have received word from Annapolis and West Point that if the game isn't played at West Point it will definitely be played at Municipal Stadium here Dec 1

For several weeks now rumors have been circulating here that Yankee Stadium is being readied for the classic between the two football machines figured to head the nation's gridiron parade again this year

It's strictly speculation anyway because according to the Office of Defense Transportation football games must be played at the home of one of the competing teams

Last year Navy was the home team and the contest was held at Baltimore, which is not far from Annapolis and is regarded by many as Navy's home field And according to that ruling the game should be played at West Point this year

Bierman's second appointment as head coach yesterday by the Chicago Tribune sponsor of the All-Star contest, made him the first collegiate mentor ever so honored

SPORTS ROUND-UP

BY FRANK CRAWFORD
(Pinch hitting for Hugh Fullerton Jr)

Kansas City August 2 (AP) —It said on the piece of paper (signed by the boss Please have a pinch hit column ready August 2 to sub for Hugh Fullerton Jr's Sports Roundup

So you have to punch one out in the clutch said Casey Stengel Kansas City Blues Well it jovial big hearted skipper of the isn't so tough Pick out a vacant spot in the outfield line up a pitch and poke it out there Casey should know He picked a couple for the Giants outside the Polo Grounds in the 1923 world series

I recall a big barrel-chested fellow Ruth I think his name was continued effervescent Casey, 'who even pointed out the spot And bingo! he parked it right where he said he would Yes Casey but this blank spot is on a piece of copy paper and besides we don't all park em where we point

'You're telling me?' said the man with the ever ready comeback Well I remember another fellow Stengel his name was who swaggered to the plate one day in Brooklyn wiggling a handful of bats and gesturing recklessly toward the fence Then he missed a third strike by eight inches It was in Brooklyn remember Boy I can hear those cheers yet! I guess that big fellow what's his name uh Ruth was tops mused old Casey who may get a call to pinch hit for the Yankees if Marse Joe McCarthy really gives up the reins as manager

'There were a lot of good ones in the 30 years I shagged flies and squirmed on the manager's bench in the National League Moose McCormick of the Giants wasn't a regular but he could smack em when McGraw sent him to the plate He walked up there as if it were a simple mission Frank Schulte of the Cubs was another He looked sleepy and lazy until the ball was almost in the catcher's mitt Then he'd wake up the outfielders who had decided to doze with him

'Of course he added they were no better than the great day-in-and-day-out stickers like Hornsby Rog was best of the lot Johnny Mize was almost as tough Old Hans Wagner was foxy whenever I played against him he would dump the ball out of reach Joe Medwick had several years when he was as good as they come

'Mel Ott is dangerous in the Polo Grounds but not so good in others Paul Waner was a little guy who could whittle any burly hurler down to his size Johnny Fredericks used to make the great Hubbell look ordinary Carl could beat them all easily except the Dodgers and Fredericks was his worst enemy

Those boys bats all look like 16 inch cannon from my outfield spot and some of them cost me sleep when I managed big league clubs

So pinch hitting isn't so tough when you have the aid of an expert not even if the spot you have picked out is on a blank sheet of paper

Pete Jr. Gets His Tenth Jap Plane!

Pete Swanson's son, Pete Jr., brought his tenth Jap plane down last week, and his dad couldn't help bragging

But I got to thinking about Pete Senior. how he hadn't missed a day at the war plant since the war began, how he'd worked overtime and Saturdays and Sundays, how he'd kept himself in shape, been temperate and sensible, so that he'd be at work clear-headed, bright and early every morning.

So, when he invited us over after work to drink a toast to his son in a sparkling glass of beer—I couldn't help toasting Pete Senior, too

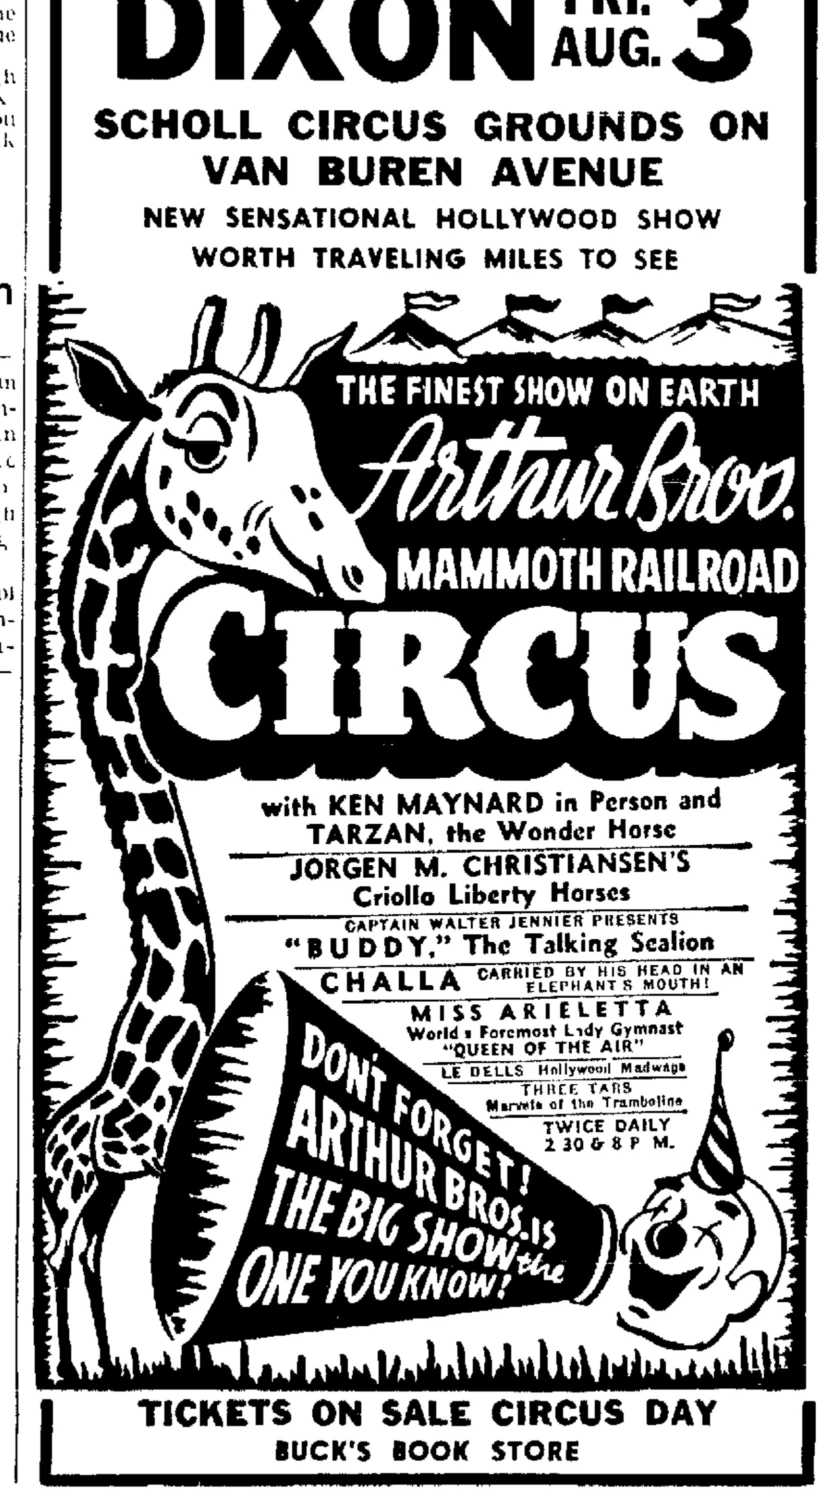

From where I sit, there's more than one kind of "ace" that's helping win this war... men like Pete Senior, too. And when the war is over, and the monuments are erected to its heroes, I hope they don't forget the workman on the home front—the man who stuck to his job like a soldier to his guns, until the Victory.

Plan Annual Drive for Financing Boy, Girl Scout Troops

Plans are being laid and an organization set up to give the people of the city of Dixon an opportunity to back the Scouting movement and lend their financial support to the strongest organization for boys and girls in the world today—the Boy Scout and Girl Scout movements. The annual financial drive which will open about the second week of September, will be sponsored and directed by the Dixon Coordinating Council and the Dixon Junior Chamber of Commerce working together to insure the running of a successful campaign and striving to go over the top in the quota which has been set up for the year.

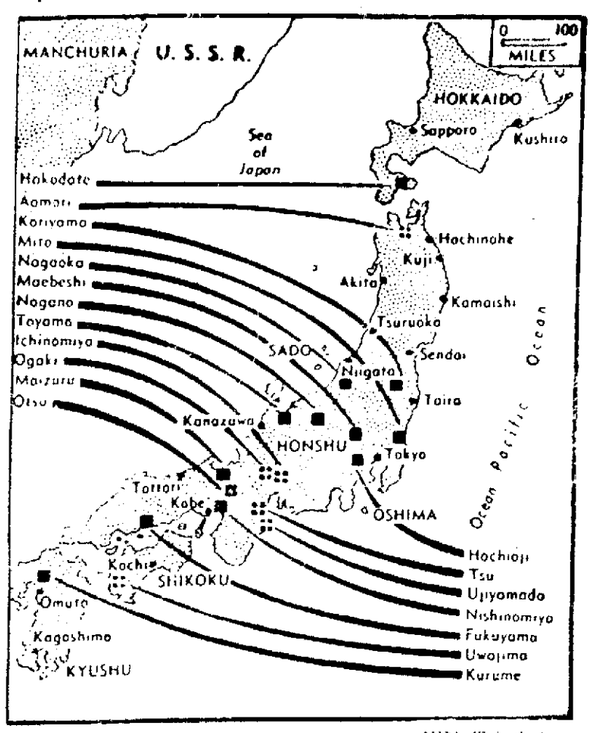

W. C. Thompson, secretary of the council and field commissioner for cubbing, has been named general chairman of this year's campaign. At a meeting at the Loveland Community House last evening Chairman Thompson announced that the Boy and Girl Scout campaign will run together this year as in the past, and that the residential area will be handled by the Girl Scouts, with Mrs. Mary Maloy and Mrs. George Lindquist as co-chairmen. The personnel which handles the business district and industrial plants will be named at a later date.

Scouting is a character building and citizenship training program for boys and girls. Adequate finances are necessary in order to make this program possible. Also, to make the program effective it is most essential that we, as adults and leaders operate the entire program on a definite business basis with unquestionable integrity. We must maintain the highest of standards in our operation as an example to youth.

For nearly four years now all have heard the slogan, "get behind the man behind the gun." What about the child behind the man behind the gun? Scouting helps the child. Let's get behind Scouting.

Newspaper Editor Proposes New Farm Program from AAA

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—W. R. Ronald, editor of the Mitchell (S. D.) Daily Republic, proposed today what he termed a "self-financing peacetime farm program" designed to bring at least parity prices to farmers.

Ronald submitted his plan to the Agriculture Department Reorganization Committee headed by Milton Eisenhower, president of Kansas State University.

Invited by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to confer with the committee, Ronald said his plan should add "from 15 to 25 billion dollars to the national income."

Main features include:

1. Change the name of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency (AAA) to the National Conservation Association (NCA).

2. Farmers to provide a conservation fund themselves by means of an excise tax of possibly 25 per cent of the price of the first sale of their products.

3. The tax would be paid back to the farmers, according to the degree of their adherence to conservation practices. Those rating 100 per cent on conservation would receive all their tax back, with premiums (these to be paid by the government) paid to those with higher ratings.

4. Loans on any crops would be available at full parity prices. These would be handled through banks with the government guaranteeing them.

5. Maximum acreages for each crop would be announced yearly by the Secretary of Agriculture "to provide an abundance of food stuffs of all kinds." This acreage would be allocated by the farmers themselves through the NCA.

Ronald, saying operation of the plan would reduce drastically the size of the agriculture department by eliminating various agencies.

"Give the farmer a fair price and a large part of the Department of Agriculture could be abolished," he declared.

Wage Increases for Rail Lines' Workers Certified Consistent

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—A wage agreement granting a four cents an hour increase to operating employes of two Chicago suburban electric railroads has been certified by an emergency board as consistent with the national stabilization program.

The board, created by President Truman July 10, approved the increase last week as a substitute for union demands for increases ranging from 12½ to 17½ cents an hour. It certified the agreement yesterday.

The Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee and the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin roads said they had agreed to half of the increase to compensate operating employes for less vacation with pay than other groups employed by the lines received.

The other two cents were justified, the board found, by an insufficient number of workers to handle a growing volume of transportation.

Relatives Allowed to Meet Wounded Veterans

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—For the first time since the European war has been written into history there were friends waiting at La Guardia field for the hospital planes returning from across the Atlantic.

With an Army stamp of approval, the wives and sweethearts, the parents and brothers of wounded men assembled at the giant airport, ready to welcome the overseas veterans.

Women were there, twisting handkerchiefs. Men took only a puff or two at cigarets before throwing them away. It was the first time the Army let civilians greet the wounded men on their arrival.

Touch of Genius

Portland, Ore.— (AP)—A Portland father, who had spent four years in the Army, has a far-away look in his eyes.

His son, just returned from Boy Scout camp, was asked how camp authorities managed to awaken 350 boys at six every morning. He replied: "Well, they did it with a bugle, at first".

Dad interrupted. "At first?"

"Uh huh", the boy answered, "then, they couldn't find the mouthpiece that fits into the bugle".

Later, when dad helped his tenderfoot son unpack his Scout bag, out rolled—the mouthpiece.

Two Fugitives From Boys' School Sought

St. Charles, Ill., Aug. 2—(AP)—The police search continued today for William Harp, 17, Decatur, and Harry Pappas, 17, Moline, Ill., inmates of the Illinois state training school for boys near here, who escaped during a storm Tuesday night.

Both youths had been returned to the school as parole violators after original commitments on burglary charges. Harp was returned last week, and Pappas was brought back last spring for violation of parole in 1942.

Two Men, Convicted of Fraud, Sentenced

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 2—(AP)—Two officials of the Crow Oil & Refining Company, charged with fraud in conection with oil land development, received federal prison sentences in federal court yesterday.

Tried under the securities act of 1933, the men were George A. King of Billings, Mont., who was sentenced to two and one half years ,and Erling L. Wernes of Chicago, sentenced to a year and a half.

The government alleged they inducted investors to put $80,000 into oil lands o fthe Crow Indian Reservation in Montana, later defrauding them on their investments.

Illinois Northern — Utilities Planning Boosting Program

A broad promotional program to stimulate postwar industrial, commercial, agricultural, and residential development of Chicago and northern Illinois will be launched soon by the Illinois Northern Utilities company in co-operation with the Commonwealth Edison company, Western United Gas & Electric company, and Public Service company of Northern Illinois, it was disclosed today by George B. Fluehr, vice-president of Illinois Northern Utilities company.

Backbone of the activity, plans for which have been under way for nearly a year, will be an intensive national and local advertising campaign in newspapers and magazines which will emphasize the area's numerous strategic advantages for the location of industry.

The first ad is scheduled to appear around August 8 and a series to follow will continue at least throughout the balance of 1945 and through 1946, Fluehr said.

The sponsoring group of companies supplies electric service in Chicago and both electric and gas service in a territory embracing nearly 11,000 square miles extending from Chicago across northern Illinois.

Factual Data Available

As an aid to business, agriculture and industry, a territorial information department has been established by the group in the Marquette Building, 140 South Dearborn street, Chicago, to assemble and make available factual data concerning the area. This research staff will co-operate in its work with local chambers of commerce, civic groups and other agencies interested in the progress and prosperity of the territory.

Designed to attract new industries as well as hold those which now operate war production plants in the territory, the companies' advertising campaign will focus attention on the area's inherent economic and geographic advantages.

Chicago and northern Illinois, it will be pointed out, is the population and transportation hub of the nation, the "great central market," the leader in the manufacture of iron and steel, outstanding in the production and processing of food and a top-ranking financial center. The area's "adequate supply" of labor, electric power, gas, oil and coal reserves, and other resources will also be stressed.

Heart Operation a Success

—NEA Telephoto

Little Judith Gudmundson of Bellingham, Wash., recovering from a delicate operation by which Mayo Clinic surgeons tied off a large duct leading to hear heart in order to save her life, is shown with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gudmundson, at their temporary home near St. Mary's hospital, Rochester. Judy celebrated her fourth birthday on July 30.

In America and England any Christian name that is the choice of the parents can be given to a child but in France and Germany there is a prescribed list of saints and persons known in ancient history and babies' names must be taken from that list.

Cool Thief

Chicago— (AP)—The temperature soared into the 90's when Philip Azallon came into the Cragin police station to report theft of articles from his parked automobile.

Stolen, he said, were three pairs of ice skates.

Caesar was the first historian to write the name for the Isle of Man, which he spelled Mona. It was changed later by Irish writers to Mana, and then to Man.

It is safe to hold a queen bee in your hand, since they only use their stings on other queen bees.

Took Her Time

Denver, Colo. — (AP) — Blondie the mare and her delayed action motherhood has local veterinarians—and her owners—guessing.

Early in May Blondie became a mother, then late in June she gave birth to a second colt. The vets say the 11-month rule of nature hasn't changed, so the second arrival must be a belated twin.

The owners named him "Say When".

No Settlement of Lease-Lend Looked for in Washington

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Official British sources here estimate the cost carrying American troops back and forth across the Atlantic in British ships at $100 each.

It is notably understood that this government estimates the cost of carrying British troops in American ships on the Atlantic at $75 each, or $25 less than the British estimate.

This American estimate is not official because the Foreign Economic Administration refuses to give an estimate which can be called official.

The estimate in both cases—by the British and by the Americans—is merely a bookkeeping entry. No money changes hands. We pay the British nothing. The British pay us nothing.

We charge off the expense of moving British troops to lend-lease aid for Britain. (The FEA is the American agency which handles lend-lease.) The British charge off the cost of moving American troops to reverse lend-lease aid for us.

The number of British troops carried from here to Europe or back—by us—is only a trickle when compared with the vast movement of American troops in Britain's big liners like the Queen Mary.

Merely a Record

The official British sources here emphasize that their $100 figure is only a "memorandum entry in the records in London and has been kept merely as a record because the United States government asked that it be kept".

The United States, they noted, will not be billed for the cost of transporting American troops in British ships.

Lend-lease aid has cost this country about 40 billion dollars, total, for goods and services. Britain has received the largest individual share.

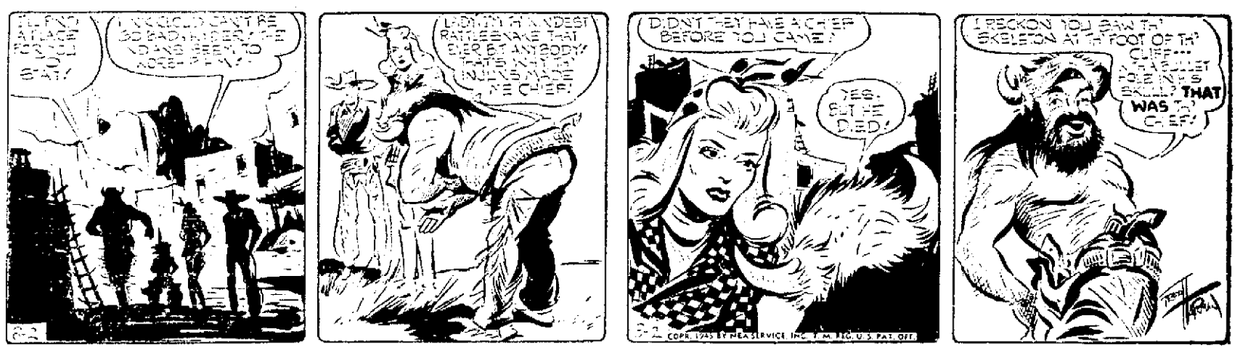

Reverse lend-lease given us totals about 5 billion dollars. By far the largest share came from Britain.

NOTED CHINESE TRAVELER

Dr T J Koo Delivered Address on San Francisco Conference

Dr T J Koo who was adviser to China's delegation to the San Francisco conference spoke to a crowd estimated at 500 persons in the Forum Theater, Hillsboro, Monday night.

Dr Koo who was held a prisoner by the Japs in Hong Kong for many months and later escaped from the Pacific war theater came to this country to tell of his life in war-racked China and to help plan for a peace-time world

The appearance of this noted Chinese traveler statesman and student of world affairs was indeed a fine gesture on the part of the speaker and on the part of Mrs Edward T Powell Hillsboro Dr Koo was a visitor at the Powell residence here and upon the request of his hostess consented to make an address here

The Chinese statesman explained the purpose and results of the San Francisco conference in such a manner that the average individual could well understand the work accomplished by delegates from the 47 nations

Dr Koo also outlined a few of his experiences while living in Japanese dominated Hong Kong. He told how he and his family were forced to dispose of their personal belongings piece by piece in order to secure food for their existence The sale of the Koo family furniture and personal items finally became a game and his daughters would ask him, Father what are we going to eat today the refrigerator, camera, etc ?"

When the Japanese started to investigate Chinese in Hong Kong the future for Dr Koo was very dark Only when a friend came to him and told him that he should tell the Japs that he was head of a hospital was a way found for him and his family to be saved As a result of this Dr Koo acted as head of a maternity hospital for 18 months although he admitted he knew nothing about such an institution or the practice of medicine or surgery

From the Free Press Hillsboro, Ohio Mrs Powell is well known in Dixon where she has been a frequent visitor at Hazelwood
